Name and title page: You must have a title, but I do not require a separate title page. I do not require or recommend headers or footers containing your name and other information. Please put your name, the date, and the course number either on the title page or front page of the paper in the upper right-hand corner. Your title should follow but do not place it more than two inches from the top of the first page.

Spacing: Please hand in double-spaced papers.

Typeface and font size: Please use either Times or Times New Roman in 11 or 12 point font. Other fonts, like Palatino, are fine, but I will not accept Arial or Courier. In other words, do not use a giant font.

Margins: Ideally, your paper will have 1 inch margins all the way around, but I will accept 1.25 inch margins on the sides (make sure the top and bottom margins are 1”).

Block quotes: Turabian writes (74), “in general a prose quotation of two or more sentences that runs to eight or more lines of text in a paper should be set off from the text in single-spacing and indented in its entirety four spaces from the left margin, with no quotation marks at the beginning or end.

Page numbers: Please make sure that your pages are numbered. If you forget to insert page numbers into your document, hand write them on each page.

Presentation: Staple your paper before handing it in. Please avoid use of special folders or binders.

Citation:

Endnotes should match the typeface of the main body of the paper but be in a smaller font (10 point is fine). To create footnotes in Word, click your mouse on Insert, and drag the menu down to endnote. At that point click on “OK,” and the program will automatically generate a number for the note. You may then type in your information. If you add another note before it, the numbers will automatically change in both the notes section and the body of the paper. Format should be as follows.

All subsequent references should read: Escott, After Secession, 98.

All subsequent references should read: Faust, “Altars of Sacrifice,” 34.
For newspapers: author (if one is listed, “title, (if there is one),” New York Tribune, June 30, 1862. (Page numbers are nice but not necessary).

Use Turabian online to find the proper citation method for other types of sources. In general, citations for documents should follow the following format: Author name (if there is one), document title, source, date (at this point, you would then include the secondary source information if you took the source from a book, or the archive information), page number.

For letters: J.D. Morgan to Juliet Opie Hopkins, November 7, 1861, Alabama Hospitals in Richmond, Administrative Files, Correspondence, Folder 2, 1861, Alabama Department of Archives and History.

Bibliography: Please add a bibliography on a separate sheet of paper at the end of the paper. You should have separate sections for primary and secondary sources. Use Turabian.
